Alma Mater

*At the foot of the mountains
Is our College; proud she stands,
Serving all who want her service,
Blessing all with outstretched hands.*

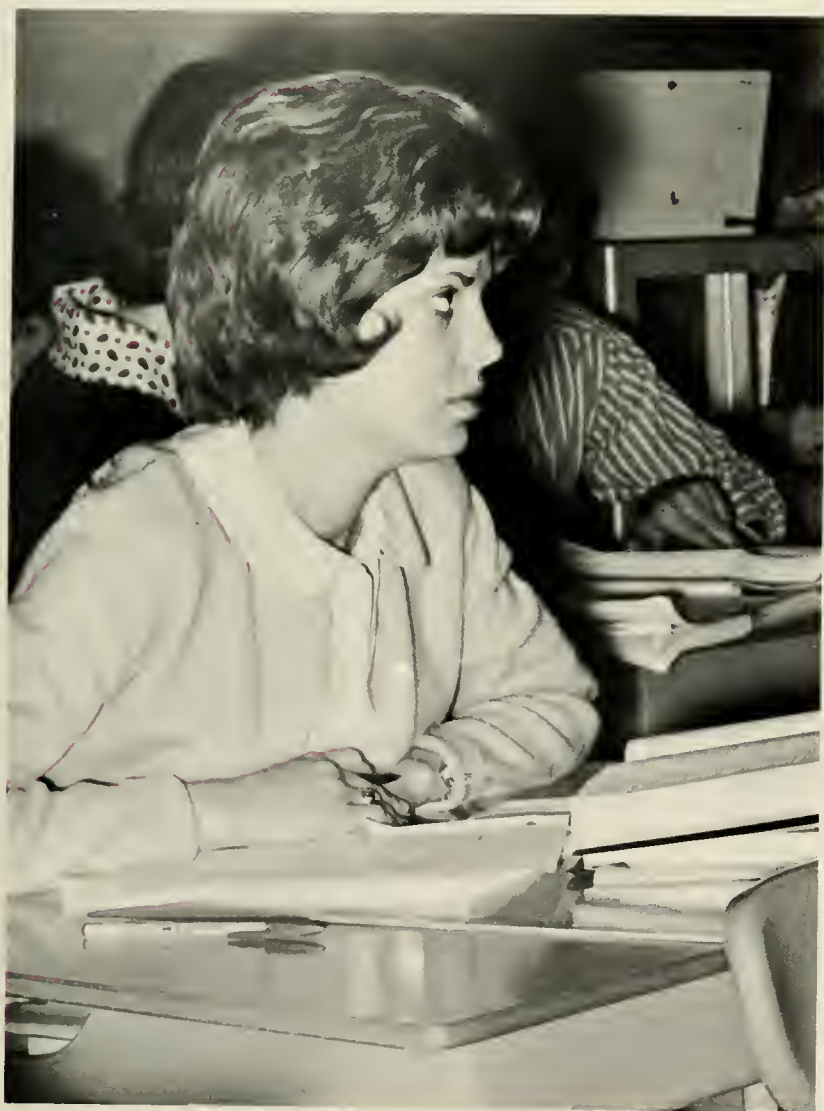

*Alma Mater, Alma Mater
We sing our love to thee;
We pledge our hearts in deep devotion
Our love, our faith, eternally.*

*In our hearts we enthrone thee
Pay thee homage far and wide,
Offer sacrificial service
To thee, our hope, our joy, our pride.*

*Alma Mater, Alma Mater
We sing our love to thee;
We pledge our hearts in deep devotion
Our love, our faith, eternally.*

The true purpose of education is to cherish and unfold the seed of immortality already sown within us;
to develop, to their fullest extent, the capacities of every kind with which the God who made us has endowed us

Anna Jameson

What is a college—a place of classes and lectures, labs and study?
Only this, a dullness of reading and listening; of tests and grades?
Nothing more?
No! A college is a place to grow.
A place of striving and reaching out, a running start on life or a new beginning.

It is stress and a little pain, frustration and sometimes fear, accomplishments and small triumphs that grow into the feeling of development and expansion of the mind.
A college is a place to grow.

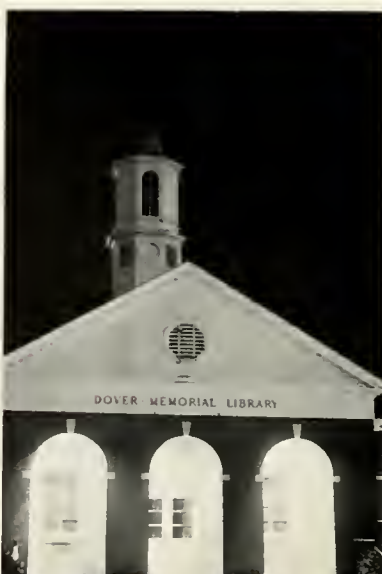

Right: Students leaving "early chapel" rush for a coke or a quick look at the mail box before eleven o'clock classes begin.

To be provided with the most modern equipment, the best books is not enough. There must be in the individual the determination to succeed, to become better than what he is. Education is work.

Here in a little sleepy town tucked away in the rolling foothills of Carolina a school that "refused to die" grows toward greatness. Drawing on the strength of a courageous heritage Gardner-Webb has taken the first vigorous strides of a vast program of expansion and improvement.

Far left: A full moon lights the entrance arch, and the pathway to a cup of coffee.

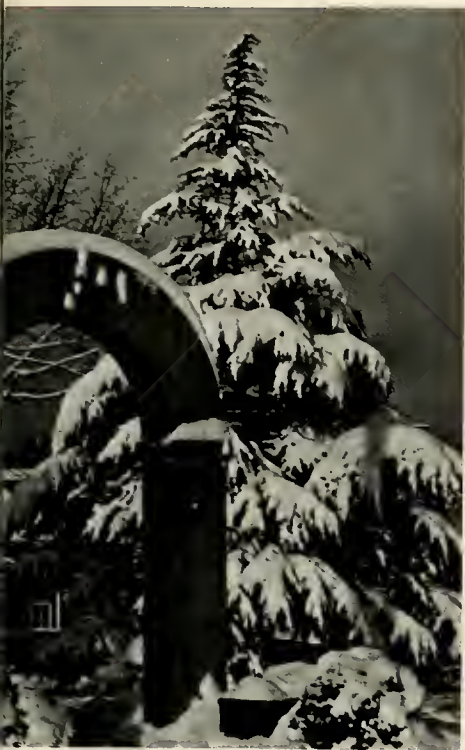

Above: Another men's dormitory was added to the college plant as the administration struggled to stay ahead of the demands placed upon Gardner-Webb.

Left: This unusual night picture symbolizes the power of knowledge and wisdom to roll back the darkness of ignorance.

Gardner-Webb's strength and her purpose are found in her students. The construction of her new buildings failed to keep pace with new enrollments forcing the school to hold important class meetings in the gym and to use out-dated classrooms, but the school remained true to her responsibility to the individual.

The heavy hand of Winter transformed the campus into an exquisite panorama of contrasts, cloaking buildings and grounds with a mantle of white.

Fresh with the exuberance of youth we came to Gardner-Webb seeking a glimpse of the awesome majesty and simplicity of Truth. Here we have stretched our minds and souls against rigorous academic standards, enriched our personalities with the warmth of friendship, and felt the sweet thrill of competition. Here the awareness of adulthood and its responsibilities began to erupt in a blaze of excitement.

Center: Extreme concentration is necessary at exam time. Mr. Fite's biology class bear down.

Below left: Time of reckoning—did I pass that exam or not?

Below: Coy Doty hooks for two behind George McDowell's screen.

Now we have learned we can never leave Gardner-Webb as we found her.
We have become a part of the school
just as she has become a part of us.
Into the fertile soil of her ideas and ideals we have thrust deep roots, roots that will richly nourish a fruitful life.
College is a place to grow.

He is wise who can instruct us and assist us in the business of daily virtuous living.

DEDICATION

Because he is a friend, perceptively concerned for his students and always willing to give of himself to aid them...

Because he has devoted nearly a quarter of a century to this school and to her students, practicing with grace the fine art of being a teacher...

Because of the merry twinkle in his eye...

Because he has revealed to us the workings of God expressed in the wonders of Nature, pouring out talent, experience, and energy to enrich our minds and to broaden our horizons...

Because he is a weather prophet...

Because he lives the teachings of Christ, embodying the qualities of courtesy and kindness, patience and thoughtfulness, those distinct characteristics of a gentleman that come not from the surface but from within the mind and spirit...

We dedicate this yearbook to Professor Paul John Stacy, scientist, gentleman, teacher, gentle rogue, friend.

ADMINISTRATION AND CURRICULUM

Capable Hands At The Helm . . .

President Poston

Providing the force and vigor to direct Gardner-Webb's surge into the future are three dedicated men, Eugene Poston, Thomas McGraw, and Robert Isner. As President of the College, Dr. Poston is daily providing the vision and faith to vitalize Gardner-Webb's "Decade of Advance." He is the driving spirit behind the college's new growth. In the brand-new office of Vice President, Mr. McGraw faces the enormous task of coordinating the fund raising campaign. To the job he brings executive ability and ceaseless energy. The involvement of the President and of the Vice President in the expansion program has thrown more and more of the day by day operation of the school upon Mr. Isner. He bears the work with fairness and capability. Despite the complexity and urgency of the problems facing these men they have remained aware of the needs of the students of G-W, keeping themselves constantly available to be of help in any way.

Dean Of Instruction

DEAN ROBERT B. ISNER
Dean of Instruction and Dean of Students
B.S., Davis Elkins College; M.A.,
Appalachian State Teachers College.

Board Of Trustees

The Board of Trustees of Gardner-Webb College are responsible for the direction of the school and must approve all changes in policy. The twenty-eight trustees are elected on a rotating basis by the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina. Seven trustees are elected each year. The Board elects the president of the college. The trustees are responsible for the general oversight and control of the college, leaving the executive function to the president. They make decisions upon recommendations submitted by the president, supply funds, supervise expenditures, and determine the policy and future extension of the college.

Office Of The Business Manager

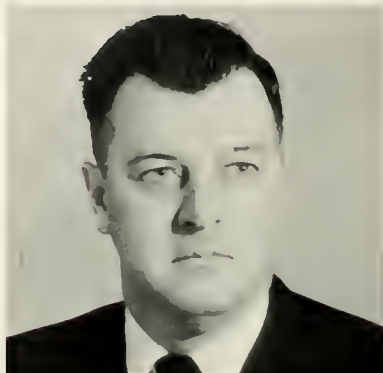

Mr. M. W. Gordon is the "money man" of Gardner-Webb. The Office of the Business Manager is responsible for all business and financial affairs of the college, and this includes such diverse functions as supervising all purchasing done by the college, overseeing the operation of the bookstore and cafeteria and the maintenance of the buildings and grounds of the college, investing retirement funds, assigning work scholarships to deserving students, and maintaining a perpetual inventory of all properties of the college. Mr. Gordon and his staff place particular stress upon making the college a better place to work and study by pleasant cooperation with both faculty and students

Office Of Cultural And Creative Activities

Francis B. Dedmond
Director

Mr. Dedmond of the English Department directs a special faculty and administrative committee for planning and carrying out a program of lyceums, including concerts, noted lecturers, famous authors, theologians, and other cultural and creative activities of the college. Under his genial leadership the program is constantly improving, expanding, and bringing a new level of culture to the college and its surrounding area. The office works closely with that of the president in acting as a liaison between the student body and the administration as far as programs of entertainment are concerned.

Office Of Guidance And Counseling

Perhaps the college student is faced with greater problems of adjustment than at any time in his life. In an attempt to assist the student to make positive adjustments and to grow in character as he develops intellectually, the college maintains a Department of Counseling and Guidance. The department first seeks to provide individual guidance for every student enrolled in the college by placing each student in a counseling group assigned to a faculty member. Each counselor meets with his counselees in a general group meeting at least once a month and as many times in personal interviews as is necessary for the needs of the student.

The Department of Counseling maintains an office with student personnel files for the benefit of both counselors and students and has an expanding testing program with a library of tests including aptitude, achievement, vocational emphasis, and personality inventories. Through this program the student and his instructors obtain an accurate picture of the student's previous academic achievement, his non-academic background, and his outstanding areas of needs and potentials.

Housemother

ROBERT B. ISNER
Dean of Instruction and Dean of Students

ROBERT L. TREXLER
Head Librarian
B.A., Wake Forest; B.D., Southern Baptist Theological Seminary; M.A., Appalachian State Teachers College.

Office Of The Dean

The Dean of any college is the administrative official that works closest with the students and with their problems. Mr. Isner is charged with the responsibility of supervising the conduct of all students and administering any disciplinary measures that may be needed. To discharge this responsibility he must work with the Counselor to Men, the Dean of Women, the College Government Association, the House Council and with any other organizations that have to do with student discipline. The Dean's office of this college goes beyond a mere role of control and discipline. With the help of Mr. Holbrook and Miss Hall, Dean Isner promotes and encourages sound student activities, aids and advises the students, especially with curriculum problems, and maintains an active interest in general welfare of all Gardner-Webb students.

The Dean presides over the college in the absence of the President and directs the activities of the Office of the Registrar and of the library.

When making important decisions the Dean often calls in his staff for consultation. "Now let's see, what color shall we make this week's Scroll?" Left to right: Edwin Holbrook, Counselor to Men; Dean Robert Isner; Mrs. Polly Wylie, secretary to the Dean; and Miss Julianne Hall, Dean of Women.

Office Of The Registrar

A vital and hard-working component of the Gardner-Webb administrative machinery is the Registrar's office. Assisted by Mrs. Dixon, Mrs. Hamrick is responsible for recording and evaluating each student's academic progress during his college years and maintaining files for future use. The office aids in student admissions, registrations, and attendance, assists students to make application and transfer to other schools when they leave Gardner-Webb, and keeps complete scholastic achievement and personal transcripts on G-W students. This year Mrs. Hamrick has devoted many hours to her duties as the college prepared an IBM bookkeeping system. Shown at right are (SEATED) Mrs. Hamrick and her Administrative Assistant, Mrs. Dixon.

ROBERT W. ABRAMS
Director of Development
 A.A., Gardner-Webb College; A.B., Wake Forest College; B.D., Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Office Of Development

Peggy Houser, secretary to Mr. Abrams, tackles the formidable task of mailing The Quarterly to each of G-W alumni.

The Office of Development turns its attention to the prospective students and to the former students of Gardner-Webb. Mr. Abrams is not only responsible for the direction of a program of student procurement, but also directs alumni work including supervising an up-to-date mailing list, organizing local alumni chapters, and encouraging the larger Gardner-Webb Alumni Association. To acquaint prospective students with the educational program offered by this school Mr. Abrams travels extensively across the state, visiting high schools, individual students, and summer assemblies. Working in conjunction with the Office of Development the Director of Church-Community Development organizes and applies a program to meet the needs of the churches in the surrounding area and serves as a liaison between the churches and the college.

Mrs. Janelle Hicks, office manager and secretary to the vice-president of the college, is shown at the left as she and her two assistants take a rare pause from campaign work. Mrs. Robert L. (Bernice) Trexler, center, and Mrs. Mildred Poston have, with Mrs. Hicks, carried out enormous amounts of work during the school year with most of it centered around the "Decade of Advance" campaign. Mrs. Hicks, a former Gardner-Webb student, has served the college as a secretary for the past ten years.

J. THURMAN LEWIS
Director of Church-Community Development
 B.A., Mississippi College; B.D., New Orleans Theological Seminary; Th.D., New Orleans Theological Seminary; M.A., Johns Hopkins University.

ALEX H. VAUGHN
Director of Promotion
 B.A., Furman University; Additional Study, University of South Carolina.

Office Of Promotion

All publications of Gardner-Webb College actually issue from a small, busy office on the second floor of the Webb Building. The Quarterly, the Pilot, the Catalogue, the Anchor, and a constant stream of programs, brochures and pamphlets are prepared by Mr. Vaughn or by students under his direction both to help implement the academic program and to present the G-W story to the general public. The Office of Promotion not only works with the printed word but arranges for the broadcasting of college events by radio and television. Since the importance of newspapers has been long understood, a major portion of this office's work is in preparing and distributing news releases on all phases of the college life and in making all arrangements and reservations for the press at all college events. Gardner-Webb has been especially fortunate in securing the services of Alex Vaughn, an experienced newspaperman, for this sensitive job. After assisting with the production of a promotional movie about the college and handling the tremendous publicity tasks connected with the Convocation, Mr. Vaughn will have ample reason to well remember his first year at Gardner-Webb.

HUBERT CONRAD DIXON
Department Chairman
 A.A., Gardner-Webb; B.A., Wake Forest College; M.A., University of North Carolina; Graduate Studies, Clemson College, Florida State University.

PAUL JOHN STACY
Assistant Professor of Biology
 B.S., Duke University; Graduate Studies, Duke University.

Department Of Science And Mathematics

The physics lab offers science-orientated students practical means of exploring classroom theory. The mechanics and properties of matter, heat, wave motion, sound, light, magnetism and atomic physics are studied. Above, left to right, Charles Loveland, Professor Tom Perkins, Joe Hamrick, and Jim Blalock discuss an exercise involving light focus.

PAUL W. JOLLEY
Associate Professor-Mathematics and Physics
 B.S., M.A., Appalachian State Teachers College; Graduate Studies, University of North Carolina, North Carolina State, Appalachian State Teachers College.

M. A. MOSELEY
Associate Professor of Chemistry
 B.S., Wofford College; M.S., North Carolina State College; Graduate Studies, University of North Carolina, Clemson College.

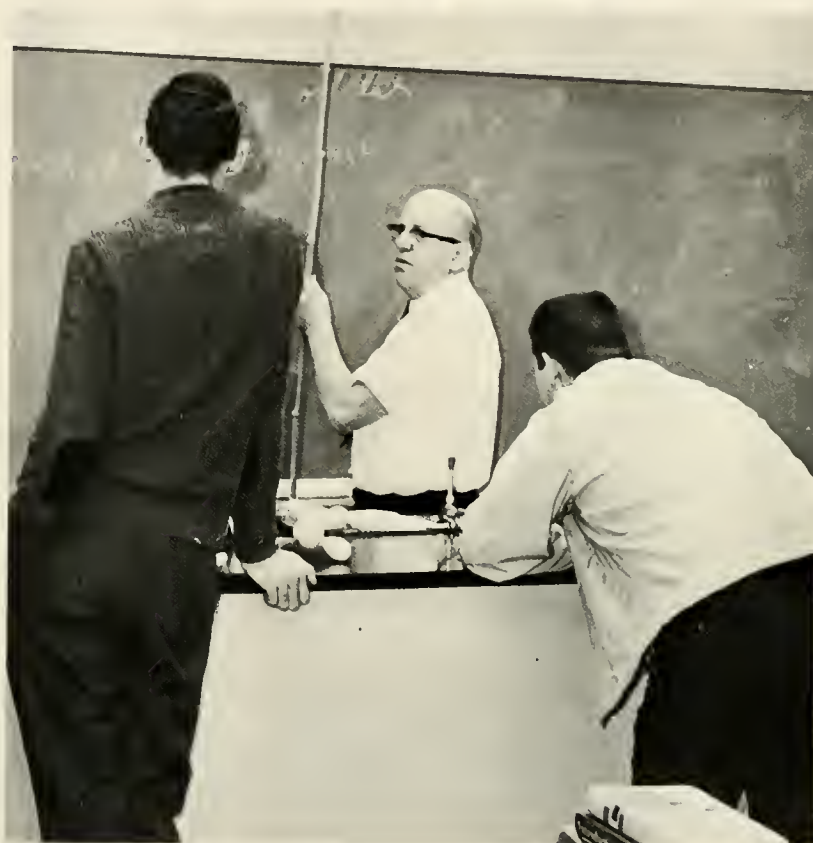

WORTH BRIDGES, JR.
Instructor in Psychology
A.A., Gardner-Webb; B.A., Furman; M.Ed.,
University of Georgia.

JAMES WALTER FITE
Assistant Professor of Biology
B.S., M.A., Appalachian State Teachers College.

The Science Department assists the student in the search for truth through the study of science and mathematics and in verifying known truths by experimentation. The student develops an understanding of and an appreciation for life through the basic laws of the physical universe, chemical composition, and the operative laws of physics. This department gives the student an adequate foundation for study in biology, chemistry, mathematics, physics, and psychology.

"And there you are."—Mr. Moseley clarifies a difficult point from his chemistry lecture for Sam Covington and Danny Hilton at the end of the regular class session.

THOMAS C. PERKINS
Associate Professor of Bible and Physics
B.S., M.S., University of Texas; B.D.,
Southwestern Theological Seminary.

HENRY B. WINTERS, JR.
Assistant Instructor of Engineering Drawing
B.S., Pennsylvania State University; Graduate Studies, University of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania State University.

FRANCIS B. DEDMOND
Department Chairman
 B.A., Catawba College; Th.M., Southern Baptist Theological Seminary; M.A., Duke University; Graduate Studies, University of North Carolina, Duke University; Drama Student, Columbia University.

THIRLEN OSBORNE
Instructor of English
 B.A., Kentucky Wesleyan College; M.A., University of Kentucky; Graduate Studies, University of Kentucky, University of North Carolina.

MRS. ROBERT DOGGETT
Instructor of English
 A.B., Winthrop College, Graduate Studies, University of North Carolina, Woman's College, University of North Carolina, Asheville Normal, Appalachian State Teachers College.

Department Of English

The Department of English has four main services; it enables the student of good English to write and read on a mature level; it stimulates the student's thinking and increases his store of ideas; it provides models for his own writing, and for increasing his vocabulary; it acquaints the student with the best that has been written in English and American literature.

JAMES K. TAYLOR
Instructor in English
 B.A., Carson-Newman College; M.A., Appalachian State Teachers College.

ROBERT G. MULDER, JR.
Instructor of English
 A.A., Chowan College; B.S., M.A., East Carolina.

MRS. GLADYS D. MORRIS
Assistant Professor of English
 A.B., Woman's College of Georgia; M.A., Vanderbilt University.

JERRY R. HILL
Department Chairman
 B.S., M.A., Appalachian State Teachers College.

MRS. HUBERT PLASTER
Assistant Instructor of Organ
 B.M., Brenau; Graduate Studies, U.N.C., University of Wisconsin.

MRS. ROBERT GIDNEY
Instructor of Music
 B.M. Westminster Choir College; Graduate Studies, Wesleyan College; Appalachian State Teachers College; Eight years private voice study.

Department Of Fine Arts

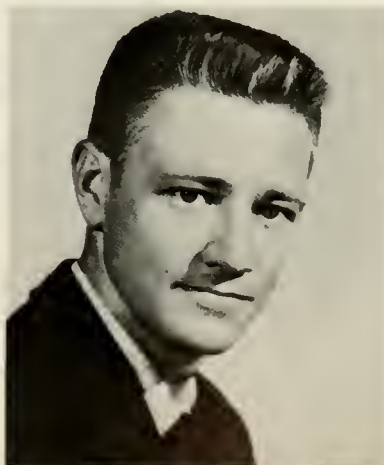

The Fine Arts Department offers courses in Music, Art, Speech, and Dramatics. These courses instill in students a deeper appreciation of the cultural values of music as well as provide adequate training. A principle aim of the department is to imbue the student with the desire and knowledge to enable him to raise the cultural standards in his community.

Charcoal sketches of a model who is himself a member of the class gives the art students opportunity to sharpen their perception of line and to improve their technique. The only one who seems to be relaxed is the model.

MRS. JERRY R. HILL
Assistant Instructor of Piano and Theory
 B.S., Appalachian State Teachers College.

ROBERT J. SHEPHERD
Instructor of Art
 B.A., Berea College.

JOHN S. SPENCER
Instructor of Health and Physical Education
 B.S., B.A., Shepherd College; M.A., Appalachian State Teachers College.

NORMAN HARRIS
Assistant Professor of Physical Education,
Chairman of Physical Education Department, Head Coach
 B.S., High Point College; M.S., George Peabody College for Teachers.

EDWIN CHARLES HOLBROOK
Head Basketball Coach, Assistant
Instructor of Physical Education
 A.B., Lenoir-Rhyne College.

Department Of Physical Education

The Physical Education Department prepares each individual to live a physically fit and healthy life in our modern society; to help develop neuromuscular skills; to make worthy use of leisure time; and also to help develop an ethical character. In addition to the Physical Education classes for both men and women and the complete program of varsity sports the department organizes an intramural schedule of football, basketball, and volleyball.

MRS. EDWIN CHARLES HOLBROOK
Physical Education Instructor for Women
 A.B., Lenoir-Rhyne College.

Gardner-Webb's broad physical education program includes instruction and participation in all major team and individual sports.

DECK W. ANDREWS
Department Chairman
 B.A., Wofford; M.S.B.A., University of Georgia; Graduate Studies, Wofford, Western Carolina, Appalachian State Teachers College.

MRS. NORMAN HARRIS
Assistant Instructor of Business Education
 B.S., Limestone; Graduate Studies, Appalachian State Teachers College.

MRS. JAMES LOGAN
Assistant Professor of Business Education
 B.S., Woman's College, U.N.C.; M.A., Appalachian State Teachers College.

"Let's see, if I don't go to the Snack Shop for the next fourteen days I'll have enough for a new pair of hose."

WALLACE R. CARPENTER
Director of Data Processing School
 B.S., M.A., Appalachian State Teachers College.

Department Of Business Education

Young people interested in the business world have an excellent opportunity for obtaining their education at Gardner-Webb. The department is concerned with development of skills, attitudes, and understanding of business principles necessary for successful business and economic life. The major purposes of the department are to prepare students for business or office occupations and to make a contribution to the education of all students toward the attainment of economic efficiency.

Department Of Languages

The language department assists the students in becoming aware of the culture, civilization, and literature of the people of other countries. The student learns to speak and to write the language in a manner acceptable and intelligible to native speakers by a combination of class room recitation and audio-visual aids. The department is headed by Professor Charles S. Andrews.

CHARLES S. ANDREWS
Department Chairman
A.B., Wofford College; M.A., Emory University; Graduate Studies, Appalachian State Teachers College; Sorbonne, University of Paris.

DR. J. THURMAN LEWIS
Assistant Professor of Greek and Speech
B.A., Mississippi College; B.D., New Orleans Theological Seminary; Th.D., New Orleans Theological Seminary; M.A., Johns Hopkins University.

DR. MARIO A. SUAREZ
Assistant Professor of Spanish
B.A., Instituto Segunda Ensenanza; Ph.D., Havana University.

MRS. BROADUS MOORE
Assistant Instructor of Latin
A.B., Georgetown College; Graduate Studies, George Peabody College for Teachers, University of Kentucky.

"Now, Brenda, you'll find that very easy to pronounce if you will just fold your tongue in half, bite the left side of your mouth, and hiccup!"

MISS CAROL JEAN SCHULLER
Assistant Instructor of Spanish and German
B.S., Kent State University.

Department Of Religion

The Department of Religion seeks to introduce the student to the background of the Christian religion, and to Christian living through a study of the Bible and Religious Education. The department also seeks to teach the student basic principles in Ethics. Through a study of Religion it is hoped the student will develop a basic philosophy of Christian doctrine and practice which will carry over into life and into eternity.

GARLAND H. ALLEN
Acting Department Chairman

 logical Seminary; M.A., Duke University;
 Ph.D., Duke University.

DESMOND RAY HARGIS
Instructor of History and Geography
 A.A., Bethel College; B.S., Austin Peay
 State College; M.A., George Peabody College for Teachers.

Department Of Social Science

The Department of Social Science provides an intellectual adventure into life through a general historical survey of our world heritage. It provides an opportunity for a further examination of the social, political, and economic ideas and institutions in which we are involved. Some of the courses included in this department are political science, economics, geography, and sociology.

Dr. Burris takes time after class to explain some of the requirements for the final to two of his History students.

MISS DORIS JONES
Associate Professor of Bible and Sociology

THE STUDENT BODY

Sophomore Class Gives Student Body Vital, Vigorous Leadership

Confident and assured after threading the maze of their first college year, Sophomore Class members took up the task of student body leadership. They assumed new responsibilities as new activities opened up for them on the campus. In student government, at the churches, on the playing field, and during social activities, sophomores applied the lessons of classroom and lab to the problems of developing life. They served in many part-time jobs both on and off the campus. Coupling the precious knowledge of formal instruction with practical experience in the community, the sophomores knew a sense of growing maturity during their last, their best, year at Gardner-Webb.

Freshman Class Brings Fresh Sense Of Excitement To Campus

It has been written that the longest journey begins with a single step. The Class of 1966 took that step boldly, entering college life with enthusiasm and vitality. During the organized pandemonium of Orientation Week, the excitement of making new friends, and the strain of adjusting to the college schedule, Freshmen met their new problems with growing confidence. Gaining assurance, they began to realize the extent of their capabilities. The ball-games, the socials, dates, and the bull sessions helped to bridge the gap between high school and the new college experience, but it was in the classroom, in the local churches, in the quiet of chapel devotions, and in the long hours of self-regulated study that the members of the Freshman Class saw the vast horizons of opportunity stretching before them, felt the "seed of immortality already sown within" unfolding and reaching toward the sun.

Evening College Takes Giant Strides

A vital facet of Gardner-Webb's program of contributing to the economic and educational development of the surrounding area is by providing adult education through the Evening College. Night classes have been held for adults since 1950; the present organization was set up three years ago. During the fall semester 97 students were enrolled in courses ranging from English and Bible to typing and Data Processing. Students in the regular college were also able to earn credits in courses not available during normal hours. Qualified instructors from near-by public schools and from local industries as well as G-W professors make up the faculty.

Lights against the encroaching darkness—students wait to begin another evening of classes.

FEATURES

Homecoming Marked By Student Activity, Opening Of New Dorm

A week of preparation followed by two days of busy activities and capped by an exciting football game highlighted this year's Homecoming. Founder's Day and Homecoming are combined each year at Gardner-Webb, and this year former principals and presidents of the school were honored as part of the events. Friday the students were instructed and informed in a special chapel program concerning Founder's Day. That night a big pep rally was held in the gym parking lot. A great many visitors began to show up Saturday for the Alumni Association which held a meeting and a luncheon, followed at three o'clock with the formal opening of the new dormitory. Special guests at the opening were those individuals and organizations who furnished rooms in the dorm. One of the year's highlights for students was the annual "open house" from two until six o'clock. For once everyone got a chance to glimpse at how the other half lives. The Bulldogs put the frosting on the cake by upsetting heavily-favored Ferrum. Jeanette Benfield, selected by student vote from a charming group of fourteen candidates, was crowned Homecoming Queen during half-time activities.

Right: Homecoming marked the official opening of Gardner-Webb's newest dormitory for men. Here Mr. Gordon, surrounded by school and student leaders, addresses the group gathered for the event.

No better way to arouse school spirit than a big bonfire and pretty cheerleaders to lead the shouting. We won't say what was being burned.

Right: Everyone agreed that a bulldog would make a fitting display for Homecoming, but even the Dean couldn't decide how to give him a head.

Gardner- Webb Greets The Spring With Annual May Day Festival

The 1965 May Day festivities featured a sparkling trip "Around the World" for the entertainment of our lovely Queen and her charming court. Scenes from the far and frozen North, through the Sudan, exciting San Francisco, the beckoning South Seas Islands, and back to the modern U. S. were portrayed by talented students. The May Day Court, shown here before their Queen, Diana Saunders, and her Maid of Honor, Joy Smith, are, left to right: Ronald Yount and Kaye Martin, Rick Holbrook and Diane Coffey, Gerald Mathis and Vivian Bridges, Vaughn Dagenhart and Celeste Ball, Fred Fisher and Jane Broyhill, Steve Poston and Judy Hendrix, Jimmy Blalock and Peggy Freeman, Bill Flounoy and Wenona Watson.

MAY DAY 1964

Although the weather was uncooperative and the festivities had to be held in the Bost Gym the spirits of those performing and attending were not dampened. The theme was a traditional "Old English May Day" and was beautifully carried out. To the delight of the court and the visitors entertainment was provided by a tumbling act, a village band, and the traditional May Pole dance.

Scenes From The 1964 May Day

The Mayor, Hugh Martin, is seen with the village band composed of Sam Young, George Scruggs, Jim McKinney and Harold Bishop as they serenade the court.

Adorning the path with flowers for Miss Gloria Johnson, queen, and Mr. Danny Gabriel, king are Lori Moore and Mary Abrams.

Girls in colorful old English dress salute the King and Queen with the beautiful May Pole Dance.

Here we see the Fairy Princess with the insects and flowers as they too enjoy the May Day Program.

Six Selected As Gardner-Webb's

In the past it has been traditional to designate a group of students as "Sophomore Superlatives" tagging them "most athletic," "most likely to succeed," "best dressed," and so forth. Believing that such selections neither reflect a true image of the quality of student at Gardner-Webb nor express fully the personality of the student body as a whole, The Anchor announces a new feature for the yearbook. Six sophomores were chosen by a special faculty-student committee

Intelligence, integrity, spirit, and diversified interest combine to produce a leader. Judy has shown these characteristics in work in Phi Theta Kappa, B. S. U., Stroup House Council, Y. W. A., and the College Choir. She has served as Historian for the honor society, vice-president of the Y. W. A., and President of the B. S. U. She was voted a member of the 1964 Homecoming Court. Judy is a history major and, after graduating from Gardner-Webb, will attend Wake Forest College.

JUDITH LYNN HENDRIX

to represent the qualities of the ideal Gardner-Webb student. The criteria for selection are a student's service to the college, his leadership qualities, extra-curricular contributions, scholastic proficiency, and potential usefulness to society. The Anchor proudly presents to you the 1965 Outstanding Sophomores.

Versatility, originality, and a concern for his fellowman has achieved recognition for Sam among the students of Gardner-Webb. His major at Baylor University will be history and philosophy. Sam has expressed his musical talent here as a member of the College Choir and the ensemble. He has been Social Committee Chairman for the B. S. U., a member of the Ministerial Conference, and Editor of The Pilot. A native of Scotland, Sam has become a citizen of the United States and gives his home as Salisbury, North Carolina.

SAMUEL M. C. YOUNG

JOYCE DIANE WATKINS

Optimism, intelligence, and the courage to pioneer in the face of great difficulties are but three facets of the character of Joyce. While working her way through college she has been a member of the Day Student Association, Secretary-Treasurer of the International Relations Club, a delegate to the Model United Nations Assembly, and star reporter for The Pilot. Joyce is a resident of Cleveland County, North Carolina and will major in mathematics at either Howard University or the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

MILTON CLAY WARF

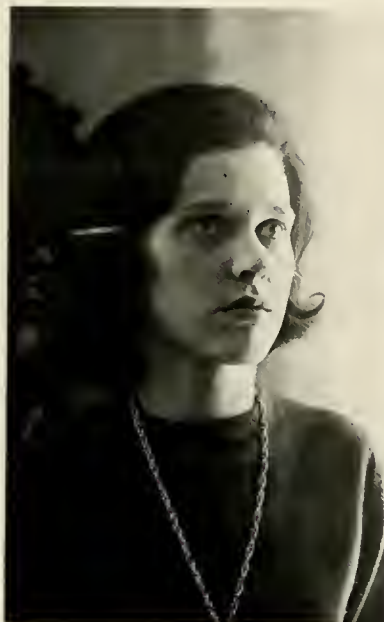

Conscientiousness, integrity, and that special friendliness characterize the life of Clay here at Gardner-Webb. A native of Reidsville, North Carolina, Clay will prepare himself for the ministry at Wake Forest. He has been a member of the International Relations Club, the Ministerial Conference, the College Choir, and the Ensemble. He appeared in both "Little Women" and "The Merry Widow," and he has been active in intramural sports. During this sophomore year he was a member of The Anchors, a student-organized singing group.

RONALD EUGENE YOUNT

Ability, personal honesty, and a sense of humor have increased Ronald's influence as a leader. His fairly-won starting positions on the football and baseball teams for two years led his teammates to select him as Monogram Club President and Lineman of the Year. Ronald is from Newton, North Carolina, and plans to major in biology and physical education at A. S. T. C.

BRENDA LORRAINE DULA

Brenda unites intelligence with wit and talent. She was selected for Phi Theta Kappa in her freshman year, appeared in the Playcrafter's production "Harvey," and has served on the Debate Team. Her name is habitually found on the Dean's List for scholastic achievement. Brenda is from Hudson, North Carolina and plans to transfer to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where she will major in English.

"The Program In The Arts" Fosters Student Cultural Growth

Complimenting the scholastic development of her students and contributing to the cultural life of the community is a pleasant part of Gardner-Webb's task of higher education. The college feels that the cultural life of the student should not be neglected during his years of formal education. The Program In The Arts is designed to supplement the academic phase of college life, producing ideally the student sound in scholarship, at ease in situations involving gracious living, and appreciative of the values in the fine arts. The Program In The Arts features music, drama, lectures by distinguished authors, lecturers, and travelers, forensics, the creative arts, and an emphasis on manners and grace through receptions and a "dressed-up" dinners program.

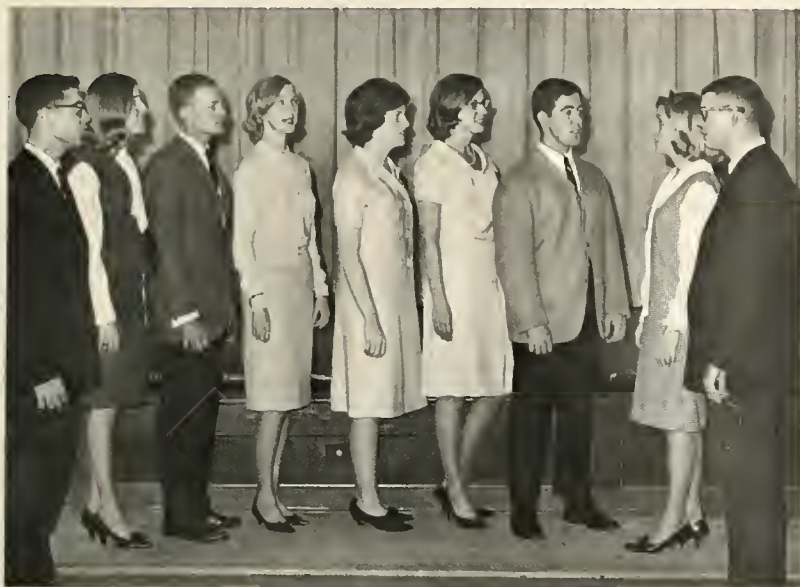

Above right: Dr. Eric Rusk, Professor of Christian Philosophy at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., autographs a copy of his latest book for Prof. F. B. Dedmond, Director of the Program In The Arts. Dr. Rusk delivered two lectures at Gardner-Webb.

Right: A lovely reception followed the Faculty Recital. Members of the Gardner-Webb Music Dept. displayed talent and skill for the students and their visitors.

The student body meet their instructors and friends formally at the Student-Faculty Reception at the start of the year. Shown at left are two scenes from the reception.

The Wake Forest Madrigal Singers presented a program featuring the complex and delightful musical patterns of a by-gone era. The group sings unaccompanied, each member following an independent part in perfect harmony.

Forrest Feezor, interim pastor of the First Baptist Church of Shelby and former missionary to Formosa, spoke to the student body on church work around the world.

One of the most exotic speakers ever to appear in a program at Cardner-Webb, Thubten Jigme Norbu, displays varying expressions as he talks with students following his lecture and film presentation. As brother of the Dalai Lama, supreme spiritual and temporal leader of Tibet, Norbu gives a gripping account of the fall of his country to the Communist Chinese, his brother's dramatic escape, and his own earlier flight. Thubten brings his audience a rare and lucid "inside" view of Tibetan customs, loyalties, and ways of living.

Winners in the annual Christmas Door Decoration Contest were Margaret Ann Moore and Kay Rogers. Their entry was a skillful and graphic symbol of "Peace On Earth."

Long and often difficult practice sessions were required to accomplish the stirring performance of Handel's Messiah presented by the Gardner-Webb Chorus on December 13, 1964. The program took place in the Boiling Springs Baptist Church and was under the competent direction of Mrs. Nettie Rayle Gidney.

Campus Revival Week featured Dr. Akbar Abdul Haqq of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association as preacher for the occasion. Dr. Haqq, a native of India, delivered sermons not only emotionally powerful but also mentally stimulating. Shown from left to right are Bobby Isner, Vivian Bridges, Dr. Haqq, and Sam Young.

The audience, at least, is assured of his sanity as Elwood P. Dowd describes his "large, white rabbit." The staff of Chumley's Rest are not at all convinced.

G- W Playcrafters Present The Delightful Comedy "HARVEY"

The first in a series of dramatic attractions presented at Gardner-Webb as part of the Program In The Arts was the three act comedy, "Harvey." One of America's most widely given comedies, "Harvey" was written by Mary Chase and directed by F. B. Dedmon. The action centers around the attempts of Elwood P. Dowd's family to have him committed to an insane asylum. Elwood is genial, friendly, and quite happy — but his best friend is a white, six-and-a-half foot rabbit.

Appearing in the production were Linda Wright as Nurse Kelly (and Miss Opra Voyze Tveksbury), Brenda Dula as Myrtle Mae Simmons, Diane Patrick as Myrtle's mother, Veta Louise Simmons, Brenda Randall as Miss Johnson, and Wanda Hamrick as Miss Ethel Chauvenet. Also Tom Seehorn as Duane Wilson, the resthome attendant, Gary Simpkins as Dr. Sanderson, Philip Bradley as Dr. Chumley, Brenda Hauser as Mrs. Betty Chumley, Bill Widenhouse as Judge Omar Gaffney and Joe DePriest as E. J. Lofgren, a cab driver.

Stage manager for the play was Amanda Wall, and her assistant was Linda Vancannon. Barbara Crouse and Nancy Adler handled the lighting. Linda Deaton, Brenda Randall, Charlotte Deaton, Diane Patrick, Linda Wright, and Carol McAbee took charge of the makeup chores while set design and construction were the responsibilities of Larry Runyan, Joe DePriest, Wanda Hamrick, Brenda Hauser, Philip Bradley, Bill Widenhouse, Gary Simpkins, and Tom Seehorn. Bill Matthews and Brenda Dula assumed the duties of publicity.

Y.W.A.'s Sponsor Valentine Buffet, Campus Sweethearts Selected

An annual event held near each St. Valentine's Day is the Sweetheart Dinner sponsored by the Young Women's Association. The traditional banquet was changed to a buffet this year to make it easier for everyone to get to the basketball game. Master of Ceremonies for the evening was Mr. Tom McGraw, Vice President of the college, and entertainment included the Anchors, the Brothers Three, and a special number by Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hill of the Music Department. The Sweetheart King and Queen, Don Ledbetter and Martha Suddreth, were selected by student vote from three couples competing. The couples were nominated by the CVB, the YWA, and the Ministerial Conference. Runners-up were Gerald Hamilton and Margaret Ann Moore and Ray Yarborough and Nancy Underwood.

Below: Students found at the cafeteria a buffet appealing to the eye as well as to the taste.

More than a week of hard work by several Gardner-Webb students was necessary to film a thirty-minute portrayal of the college's past, present, and future plans. "The Extra Dimension," a color, sound movie for release to television and church and civic club meetings, featured Cynthia Allen as a student doing a research paper on the college. Most of the Gardner-Webb students and many of the faculty and administration joined in the movie as well as several area citizens. Working as hard behind the camera were Sandra Honeycutt as script supervisor, and Bill Jones, Gilbert Lipscomb, and Deuane Hedden as crew members. The film was photographed by Alfred Stuart of Richmond, Virginia, and directed by Jimmy Morriss, secretary of the Department of Program Service of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina.

Center: Cynthia displays the poise and calmness which qualified her for the leading role in a scene with the college president, Dr. Poston.

Below left: Preliminary work such as panoramic views of the campus were shot by Jimmy Morriss with the help of Tom McGraw.

Below right: Script for the movie called for Cynthia to contact most of the formally-organized groups on the campus. Here she is shown talking to the BSU council.

ACTIVITIES

Student Rights and Responsibilities Guarded By College Government Association

The Gardner-Webb College Government Association directly involves every student at the college. Officers are elected each year from the upcoming sophomore class and take as their primary and sole purpose to serve the student body. Three main divisions comprise the Association. The Legislative Body formulated policy, rules, regulations and laws which are necessary and proper for the government; the Judicial Body deals with all cases of discipline; the House Council determines policies affecting the respective residence hall. Student government officers never have an easy job, but the satisfaction of performing well a service for the school and the students is ample compensation for the time and effort expended.

Left to right: Oren Frye, vice-president, Bert Langley, president, and Barbara Long, secretary, prepare to open a meeting of the executive council.

Miss Carol Jean Schuller
Faculty Advisor

Day Student Association Vital Component Of College Government

The Day Student Association, composed of the President, Vice President, and Secretary-Treasurer, works closely with the Student Government Association in representing a larger portion of the student body. This association sponsors extra-curricular activities and assisted in the Convocation.

Seated, left to right: Druey Lambert, Don Kingsmore, Phil Bradley, and Jerry Armstrong.
Standing: Oren Frye, SGA vice-president, Ronnie Turner, Ken Conrad, Burt Langley, SGA president, Sonny Mull, and Calvin Palmer.

House Councils Elected To Govern Resident Students

The House Councils are designed as a regulatory instrument to maintain order in the dormitories and to promote the best social conduct on the campus. Consisting of the house presidents and their hall proctors, the Council is elected by the resident students; to be nominated for office a student must have displayed good character, dependability, and leadership. They seek to assist the students in any situation and strive to correct through example and reproof rather than to make requital.

"Now, Seehorn, while Marett finishes my shave, you shine my shoes, and maybe we'll just forget telling the Dean about those broken windows."

Gives Students Responsibility And Self-Discipline

Baptist Student Union Strives For Religious Growth Of All Gardner-Webb Students.

The B.S.U. gives to each interested student an opportunity for service and growth in his Christian life. The organization is lead by an Executive Council, composed of the leaders of the various unit organizations such as the S.S., T.U., C.V.B., Y.W.A., and Ministerial Conference. The officers in each of these groups combine to form the Greater Council, thereby offering more opportunities for leadership. The directors and local pastor serve as counselors for the B.S.U. which give the students a chance to enrich and broaden their spiritual lives.

The Executive Officers are these: President, Judy Hendrix; Vice President, Tommy Petree; and Secretary, Yvonne Ashe.

Officers of the Baptist Student Union include seated, left to right: Elaine Arrowood, Y.W.A. president; Yvonne Ashe, secretary; Judy Hendrix, president; and Tommy Petree, vice-president. Standing are Barbara Long, Vespers chairman; Cliff Tipton, Chapel Devotions chairman; Rachel Murphy, Listen chairman; John Toms, Sunday School representative; Faye Hord, Training Union representative; Louise Morley, Sunday School representative; Judy Cooke, Music co-chairman; Herbert McCoy, Ministerial Conference representative; and Brenda Wyatt, Music Co-Chairman. Not present for picture were Jeannie Timmons, C.V.B. president, Toni Freeman, Morning Watch chairman, Gerald Hamilton, Publicity chairman, and Sam Young, Social chairman.

One of the many projects of the B.S.U. this year was painting the playground equipment at the local church. B.S.U. members generously shared the paint with the equipment.

Christian Volunteer Band Seeks To Be Workmen For God

Among the more active members of the student body at Gardner-Webb are those people who make up the Christian Volunteer Band. Young men and women who have heard the call to full-time religious work, either as ministers or as laymen, join the C.V.B. to put their beliefs into action. They hold programs on subjects of interest to vocational Christian workers, organize service teams to conduct special youth services at churches of the surrounding area, and visit the aged and infirm. The C.V.B. also maintains a choir composed of their members who enjoy working with music. The Band is united by a common love for Christ and an eager desire to be of service to Mankind.

Ministerial Conference Embodies Ideals Of Service

The Ministerial Conference is composed of those students who are planning to follow this vocation. Bi-weekly programs are held which are directed toward helping these students become more familiar with the needs and problems of the future pastor and his work. These students receive training by conducting services for churches in the local area. The faculty advisor for the group is Dr. J. Thurman Lewis.

Methodist Students Form New Campus Group

Early in October an active group of students banded together to form a new church-related college organization. Feeling the need for a club similar to the BSU but related to their particular interests and needs, Methodists met as a unit for the first time on this campus and formed the Gardner-Webb Methodist Student Movement. Assisted by Reverend Howle, pastor of the local Methodist Church, they sought and received affiliation with the North Carolina MSM and through them with the national organization. The MSM meets twice a month and has maintained group interest with a varied schedule of programs including panel discussions, guest speakers from the college faculty, group discussions revolving around topics of timely interest, and informal parties. Adult, Counselors for the group are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Swafford.

Officers for the Methodist Student Movement are, left to right: Carthel Crout, vice president; Carole Harmon, president; Debbie Wacker, program chairman; and Tommy Smith a charter member of the group.

Young Women's Auxiliary Enlists Coeds In Mission Study And Christian Service

The Young Woman's Auxiliary, commonly referred to as the Y.W.A. and a part of the Woman's Missionary Union, enlists the young women of the College in mission study and actual service in local missions. The members are led to see the meaning of missions and to have a compassion for a world without Christ. All the girls who reside in the residences are invited to join the Y.W.A. by joining a circle, usually composed of those who live on the same hall.

Alone, in front of spectators and with sole dependence upon an agile mind, past research, and his ability to communicate orally, stands the debater.

This spot is a long way from the casual bull sessions of the dormitory for here judges critically listen, timekeepers rapidly flip away time cards denoting your fleeting minutes and opponents listen with avidness for a weakness—a point left vulnerable for attack.

Debate, a gentleman's activity, has been and remains a point of pride at Gardner-Webb College where our teams stand equal in tournaments with both junior and senior college competition. Much credit for this can be given to the coach, Professor F. B. Dedmond, who carries his teams to Wake Forest, Appalachian State Teachers College, University of Georgia, Annapolis, Md., Florida State University and other sites for competition.

College Choir Under Direction Of Mrs. Gidney

Interested students find in the Gardner-Webb College Choir opportunities for musical expression and choral training on the large group level. Selected by audition before Mrs. Gidney, forty students comprise the choir. Throughout the year they learn various pieces of music which they present at churches in the surrounding area. This year their special programs included the presentation of Handel's Messiah at Christmas, their appearance at the Convocation, and a special performance of the Crucifixion on Easter. Also, during the school year, the choir presents various programs to the students of the college.

MRS. NETTIE R. GIDNEY
Director

Members of the choir include: Cynthia Allen, Yvonne Ashe, Gayle Barker, Marie Beckett, Nancy Bradey, Talmage Brock, B. Cabiness, Dennis Childers, and Harold Childers. Also Judy Cooke, Jane Cox, Connie Daniel, Bartlett Dougherty, Toni Freeman, Sharon Garner, Lui Greene, Bryan Gruver, and Sandra Guffey. Also Sandra Hall, Gerald Hamilton, Harry Hawks, Diane Hendrick, Judy Hendrix, Tina Henson, Brenda Hilliard, Sandra Honeycutt, Linda Hopkins, Ann Icard, Patricia Jarman, and Carolyn Johnson. Ensemble Gives Students New Means Of Musical Expression

The College Chorale, a select group of 20, are a new and outstanding addition to life at Gardner-Webb College.

Under the direction of Jerry Hill, the group was founded at the beginning of the school year through auditions in which top vocalists were selected.

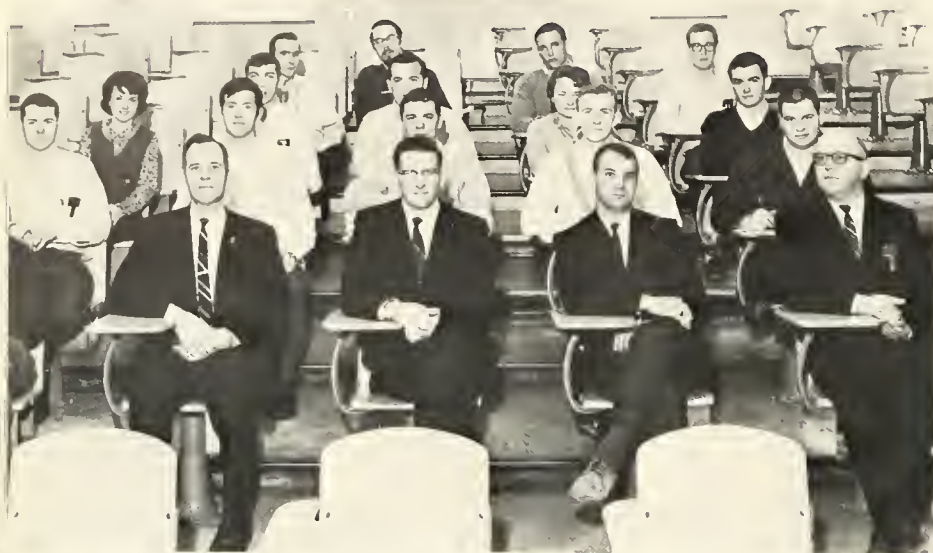

These twenty, ten young men and ten young women, not only presented various individual programs throughout the year, on and off campus, but in March and April make a state-wide tour.

Smartly dressed in maroon blazers with the college emblem on the left breast pocket, our College Chorale presents to the public a vivid example of the outstanding work being done in our Fine Arts Department.

Jerry Hill, professor of music and speech, is director of the Ensemble. He is shown at the faculty musical recital.

Sigma Delta Psi Stimulates Interest In Science

To stimulate an intelligent interest in mathematics and the sciences and to provide an opportunity for fellowship and study the students and faculty members of the Department of Science and Mathematics maintain the Science Club. Eligible to join are all students who intend to major or minor in the natural sciences and who have outstanding scholastic records. The club holds regular monthly meetings and presents programs of scientific interest both by the club members and by experts available in the local area.

International Relations Club Is Popular Organization

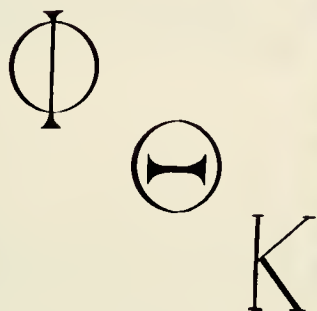

The International Relations Club is composed chiefly of those students majoring or minoring in the Social Sciences. The main purpose of the club is to encourage and to stimulate the students' interest in international affairs. The importance of keeping well-informed on recent world happenings and the role of the United States in contemporary issues is stressed. This year Gardner-Webb sent a delegation representing Da-homey to the Model United Nations Assembly at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill from February 12-15. Making the trip to Chapel Hill were Joyce Watkins, Mia Rollman, and Talmadge Brock. They were accompanied by the club's faculty advisor, Professor Lansford Jolly.

Officers of the International Relations Club include Talmadge Brock, publicity, Joyce Watkins, secretary, Mr. Lansford Jolly, faculty advisor, and Mia Rollman, president.

Phi Theta Kappa Recognizes Student Scholarship

The highest honor attainable by a student at Gardner-Webb College is membership in Phi Theta Kappa. Phi Theta Kappa is an honorary scholastic fraternity which embraces junior colleges not only of our own state but of the nation. The purpose of the society is to promote scholarship, to develop character, and to cultivate fellowship among the students of both sexes of the junior colleges of the United States. Members are chosen on the basis of high academic standing, character, leadership, and service on the campus, and are inducted at an impressive "tapping" ceremony in chapel. They serve as ushers at public functions and marshals at graduation. The local Lambda Omega chapter took as a special project for this school year the study and discussion of significant novels. Works chosen included The Scarlett Letter, Catcher In The Rye, and Shoes of the Fisherman. The chapter was especially fortunate this year to have as faculty advisor Dr. C. Allen Burris. Dr. Burris was instrumental in originally bringing Phi Theta Kappa to this campus several years ago.

College Newspaper Gains New Vitality

A Scotsman, turned American by choice, became the driving force behind The Pilot during the year, adding vitality to its operation and a sound basis upon which to hopefully build better things in years to come.

Samuel Young, elected editor by the student body, allowed the newspaper to become a sounding board for student ideas and activities as well as serving as a training ground for those seeking writing experience. Under this renewed interest, a class in Journalism was started during the second semester with 14 students enrolled and it is believed that this will lead to even more interest in, and support of, the newspaper. Mr. Alex H. Vaughn, director of promotion at the college, was faculty advisor during the year. Staff members were Jim Hinsdale, sports editor, Judy Cooke, business manager, Joyce Watkins, reporter, and Gary Putnam, photographer.

Annual Records Spirit Of Year Of Growth

The book that you hold is an attempt to record, not only the activities of the school year, but also the spirit and mood of Gardner-Webb in 1964 and 1965. Publication started after Editor Sam R. Covington assembled his staff in September. Rachel Leatherman accepted the position of Associate Editor and has been an invaluable member of the organization. Johnny Burt handled the sports section of the book assisted by Jim Ballard. Other staff members included Judy Cook, Jane Greene, Amanda Wall, Johnny Wiggins, and Chris DiCiaccio. Coy Doty was the business manager. The Advisor for The Anchor was Alex Vaughn, Director of Publications.

No one can know the hours of labor spent in seeing that this book of memories reached your hands this year. Often the Anchor staff bent to it's task on sunny Saturday afternoons, lazy Sundays, warm fall nights and cold wintery days. Shouts and laughter of students across the campus enjoying leisure time of the evenings are hard to ignore by one wrapped into the confines of a stuffy office filled with hundreds of pictures. Much of any credit due the book lies with our editor. To him each section will mark a precious, pressured deadline and each page will bring back memories of hard, but enjoyable work.

Surely we admit the laughter, sense of accomplishment, and feeling of being "special" in this task of recording a year's activities.

Growth Of Campus Sportsmanship Is Monogram Club Objective

The Monogram Club is the athletic club for men. To qualify for membership a student must pass at least 10 hours of work with a "C" average and earn a letter in football, basketball, or baseball. The purpose of the organization is to foster good fellowship and good sportsmanship among members and to promote better relations with other schools in the Western Carolinas Junior College Conference.

Bulldogs Tie Runner-Up Slot In Region Ten Play

Harris Named Coach Of The Year

Gardner-Webb finished the season with a 3-5 record and only its third losing season in 15 years, but handed conference winner Ferrum its only defeat of the year. Most success for the Bulldogs came at midseason as they snapped a three-game losing streak and went on a winning binge of three tilts before hitting the skids in the last two games against Chowan and Gordon Military.

Coach Harris has been head coach at Gardner-Webb for thirteen seasons and has a won-loss record of 77-53-14 and has won six conference championships. Coach Harris attended Lee Edwards High School in Asheville and captained the football team his senior year. From high school Harris went to Duke University and High Point College. He received his undergraduate degree from High Point and was awarded his Master's Degree at George Peabody College.

Gardner-Webb 7, Lees-McRae 20—The Bulldogs opened their home season against the Bobcats of Lees-McRae College at Blanton Memorial Stadium. Lees-McRae scored in the first quarter to give the Bobcats an early lead. The second quarter saw a plunge into paydirt by Larry Caskey following a touch-down drive with Charles Peeler leading the way. Bob Laughter kicked the extra point. After this, the Bobcats exploded for 13 points, and the scoring was over. The second half was a contest of defensive units with neither team able to score.

Gardner-Webb 2, Furman University 20—Furman University was the next stop on the Bulldogs trail. The Paladins had the Bulldogs overpowered but it was a gallant effort on the part of the offense and defense. The only G-W score came on a safety when a Furman man was caught behind the goal line for the two pointer.

Gardner-Webb 6, Chowan 9—Gardner-Webb showed much improvement although losing to Chowan. The two teams were very evenly matched with both sides fighting for every yard. The Bulldog score was made on a punt blocked by Larry Lauderdale and recovered by Bill Seel in the end zone. The score was seven to six until the last seventeen seconds of the game when Willis Burkett was caught in his own end zone for a safety.

Gardner-Webb 14, Lees-McRae 0—The Bulldogs traveled to Banner Elk with one thought in their minds, Bobcat Beef for dinner! Even though it was raining on the field the sun was shining on the Bulldog bench. The G-W eleven treed the Bobcats 14-0. The game was scoreless until midway of the last quarter. Then the Bulldogs broke loose with Fred Fisher intercepting a pass and charging back to the L-M two yard line. Charles Peeler cracked over and Bill Seel added the point after. With victory in sight, the muddy eleven charged seventy yards up field with Gerald Mathis grinding the way. From the ten yard line Charles Peeler once again scampered in for his second touchdown to put the game on ice. Bill Seel added the final touch with a perfect conversion.

Gardner-Webb 14, Ferrum 7—Gardner-Webb continued its fine brand of football trouncing heavily favored Ferrum Panthers. The Panthers scored first but then it was the Bulldogs' ballgame. The first touchdown was set up with a sensational catch by Robert Cone on a 41 yard pass play from Willis Burkett. Charles Peeler took the ball around end for the once again, who blocked a punt on the ten yard line to set up the second TD. On the first play from scrimmage Gerald Mathis cracked over for the clincher. Bill Seel added his "Midas" touch and kicked the point after.

Against Gordon Military, Charles Peeler picks up yardage while Gerald Mathis and Gary Henry provide blocking.

Gardner-Webb 14, Davidson 7—With two victories behing them the Bulldogs traveled to Cherryville to play a near perfect ballgame smashing the Wild-kittens 14-7. Gerald Mathis scored the first touchdown, and Bill Seel kicked the extra point. Joel Carrol then caught a 30 yard pass from quatterback Willis Burkett for the second score and Seel converted the extra point.

Gardner-Webb 0, Chowan 35—It was a dark Saturday for the Bulldogs as the Chowan Braves went on the warpath for a 35-0 victory on their home field. However, the game was much closer than the final score revealed. Gardner-Webb outrushed Chowan 234 yards to 184 yards and made 15 first downs to 13 for the Braves. The loss gave G-W a 3-3 record for the Region 10 Conference.

Gardner-Webb 0, Gordon Military College 20—Plagued by iniuries, the Bulldogs traveled to Georgia only to be defeated by a strong Gordon Military team. The game was built on defense with Vaughn Dagenhart and James Bird doing an outstanding job. James made 10 individual tackles and both he and Vaughn intercepted a Gordon pass. With this game the Bulldogs completed a 3-5 season. In defeat there is honor.

The backbone of the Bulldogs, the defense shows its gristle. Against the Paladins of Furman University, are left to right: Bob Moorehead, Vaughn Dagenhardt, Willis Burkett, Jerry Harris, and Ed Fisher.

Gardner-Webb Cagers Have Sparkling Season With New Coach

Given time to jell, the 1964-65 Gardner-Webb Basketball team came from a long way behind to wind up the year with a winning record. They topped off the year by taking the championship of the Western Carolinas Junior College Tournament. Coach Eddie Holbrook found a lions share of troubles in his initial college coaching season. Last year was a disastrous 6-21 slate, and returning from that team only two players, Coy Doty and Willis Burkett. Bringing his host of inexperienced freshmen along slowly but well, Holbrook still faced bleak prospects at mid-season when injuries and grades riddled the team. Especially keen was the sidelining of Phil Luckadoo with a leg injury and the loss of George McDowell, both tall men needed under the boards. With the emphasis on speed and quickness, a developing team spirit, and unceasing student support the Bulldogs stayed fired up and molded themselves into a fine combination. It was this smooth-moving teamwork that made the difference for the Bulldogs. After second semester they worked as a unit on the court with but one will—to win. Dennis Childress sparked the scoring effort by consistently hitting in the double figures. The towering form of Joel Carroll and the quickness of Kenny Beam led the defense. In a week of great basketball the Bulldogs won three straight over Anderson, Spartanburg, and Lees-McRae to win the W.C.J.C.C. tournament before losing to a fine Ferrum team in the Region Ten tournament. Almost before the season closed Holbrook had begun a vigorous recruiting program, determined to make next year "Bulldog Season" in the W.C.J.C.C.

Bulldogs Split 1964 Conference Schedule In First Losing Year

The 1964 season was Coach Harris's first losing year in baseball in the fifteen years he has been at Gardner-Webb. His Bulldogs split the conference games, winning five and losing five but had a 7-9 overall record. The team was eliminated by Wingate and Anderson in the Region Ten Tournament, Wingate going on to be ranked fourth in the nation. The season's competition built up a nucleus of veterans that should give the college an exciting year in 1965. Among the returnees will be Coy Doty who pitched the Bulldogs to all seven of their victories this year. His favorite catcher, David Hill of Greenville, S. C., will be back, as will Willis Burkett, utility outfielder, and Ron Yount. The All-Conference second baseman, Clarence Mabe, heads the lettermen. Mabe hit .310 this year and turned in outstanding defensive work. Added depth will be given the team by the return of Sam Rector at short-stop and relief pitcher, Druey Lambert.

Left: Ron Yount, third baseman, gave the Bulldogs backbone with steady hitting all season and capable infield work.

Center below: Clarence Mabe, a fielding genius and .310 hitter, made second base the keystone of G-W's team. He was selected for the All Conference team for his stellar defensive work.

Right below: David Hill and Coy Doty relax in the locker room as they try on the new uniforms for the 1965 season. David is a catcher and utility outfielder and Coy pitches.

Left: Druey Lambert, right-handed relief pitcher, is expected to add needed depth to next year's squad.

Center: Willis Burkett made baseball his third letter of the year. He is a real team man with the ability to play practically any position from behind the plate to the outfield.

Competing in a game that requires more individual excellence than coordinated teamwork, the 1965 G-W golf team still found means to aid and support each other. Under the calm guidance of Dr. Garland H. Allen, also chairman of the Religion Department, the team won five of nine inter-collegiate matches and took part in the conference tournament in Linville, N. C. Left to right they are Vic Hannon, Ken Oliver, Steve Lyman, Ronnie McGee, Jerry Armstrong, Joe Messick, and Gary Christenson.

G-W Tennis Team Re-Organized By Coach Taylor

Gardner-Webb did not have a tennis team in 1964 and found it difficult to get in the winning column in a "beginning" year. When they lost, they lost hard, indicating that the Bulldogs will be hard to hold next year. Coach for the team was James K. Taylor, an English instructor in his first year here. Shown right to left are Arnold Phillips, Henry Brooks, and Tommy Bell, kneeling, and Danny Shaw, Sid Martin, and Jerry Taylor, standing.

1964 Track Team Boasts Of Many Stars, New Records

The 1964 version of the Gardner-Webb Track Team was a small, talented group of athletes competing in a tough league. Coach John Spencer started the season with hopes for a title year, but inability to capture second and third place points kept the Bulldogs out of the top money. In track and field competition total team points are scored for meet victories instead of individual winners. Even with outstanding performers in many events, the G-W thinclads ended the season behind Wingate, Lees-McRae, Brevard, and North Greenville, in that order, and topped only Anderson and Asheville-Biltmore. The Bulldogs opened against Brevard, dropping the meet by only 66-64. In the three-way meet following, G-W gathered 26 points against Ferrum's 76 and Lees-McRae's 68; a single match against Lees-McRae saw the Bulldogs lag 78-52. The Conference meet ended the season, and G-W came in fifth in the field of seven. Record holders for the year were Gene Swink on the high jump with 5' 11" and Ron Freize with a 4:35 mile and a 10:31 two mile. Freize was Conference Champion and record holder in both events. The team was made up of Tyke Fisher, Bert Langley, Hugh Watson, Wayne Laughter, Gary Simpkins, Sam Franklin, Jim Ballard, Paul Allison, Tommy Ogburn, Gene Swink, Ronnie Freize, Don McLean, Ronald Rogers, and Don Bagwell.

Student Interest High In Intramurals

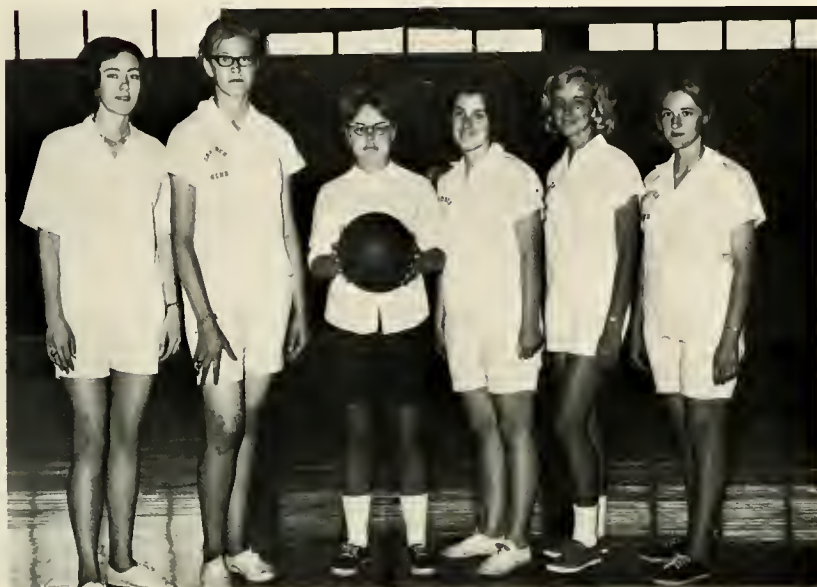

Third-Floor, New Dorm remained undefeated throughout the intramural play to win the football honors.

Girl's intramural volleyball competition was handled in the physical education classes. Teams in each class played for top position in the class but no over-all championship team was determined.

Convocation Focuses Attention On Advancement Campaign

Formation of Gardner-Webb's future was underway during our years at the college and we became part of historic events which will someday result in a transformation to senior status.

As ushers, guides, choir members, and in many other ways, we helped carry out the great convocation of March 20-22 dates which marked the beginning of a $1,125,000 campaign for expansion and eventual senior status.

The campaign chairman, R. Patrick Spangler, announced March 22 that over $750,000 has been pledged toward the goal—we see our administration has not over-dreamed or missed the mark in what people will do for this college.

Governor Dan Moore, U. S. Representative Julia Butler Hansen, of the State of Washington, Dr. T. W. Wilson, associate evangelist with Dr. Billy Graham and D. W. Brosan, president of Southern Railway System were guest speakers during events.

We listened to the past being praised, became more appreciative of our present college but were thrilled with the vision of what lies ahead for Gardner-Webb. At the same time we longed, not for a few years in which to return and see the reality of what was beginning, but for a hasty development that we might take part in the new. We will ever watch with interest her growth and with pride remember our small part in her giant step into even greater service.

Above left: Congregational singing is led by Mr. Horace Eason of Shelby. His always vigorous manner of leading out made this part of Sunday's convocation event a highlight. Others shown, left to right are Dr. W. Perry Crouch, general secretary-treasurer of the Baptist State Convention of N. C.; Dr. T. W. Wilson, associate evangelist with Dr. Billy Graham and speaker of the day; John R. Dover III, convocation chairman; Dr. E. Eugene Poston and Rev. Edgar H. Nease, pastor of Shelby's First Methodist Church who gave the invocation. Extreme left: A smiling U. S. Congresswoman, one of 12 in the nation, brought a Saturday morning address which kicked-off the convocation. Rep. Julia Butler Hansen is shown during her talk.

Left: Governor Dan K. Moore gave an inspiring talk on "Education Is Everybody's Business" and related his past personal experiences with Gardner-Webb College and its leadership. He was introduced by R. Patrick Spangler, national general chairman of the college's campaign. Below: Dr. T. W. Wilson ignored a cold wind as he gave a wonderful sermon Sunday to nearly 5,000 persons who braved the weather to hear him. He substituted for Dr. Billy Graham who was ill.
